Notable features:

The block has been damaged by unsightly 20th century additions in 926-936. Number 938 is an old house, one of the oldest in the block and could be one of those at the west end of the block alluded to in the tax statement, 1839-40. It would seem that most of the shops are original although they have been heavily altered. Number 942 is a dwelling with shop and its dating is accurate because its site is shown as empty on the 1876 map and is occupied on the 1885, which dates the building between 1876 and 1885. Numbers 934-936 have been formstoned.

Environmental context:

Modifications have ruined the scale of this part of the block and the trucks generated have no place to stand for loading but in traffic lanes. Trucks, as in the photo, double park all hours of the day and are parked there at night. Provision for them must be made if these businesses are to remain.
